New mayor will work for youth

By The Altona Star's Council Reporter

Altona's new mayor, Ray Richards, 39, intends to "go all out for youth on sport" during his term of office.

Cr. Richards is the sixth and youngest city leader.

Addressing the 200 ratepayers and guests who attended his mayoral inauguration at the council chambers last Thursday night, he said: "It has been a tradition in Altona for the incoming mayor to provide a theme or some type of gimmick."

"Last year Cr. Weaver gave us the tree. And the tree I received at last year's mayoral inauguration now stands six feet tall in my backyard," he said.

"In years to come people will realise just how much Harry did for the community."

Cr. Richards said he intended to encourage more youth participation in community activities by inviting youth groups to council meetings and encouraging greater liaison between council and youth bodies.

Talking to the Star this week at his Blackshaw's Road home, Cr. Richards, a sales manager, outlined some of his plans for the ensuing mayoral year.

He intends to encourage youth activities by:

- calling a public meeting to discuss the formation of a horse and pony club in the city to cope with the hazard caused by young horse riders.

- pave the way for the formation of a senior athletics club in Altona. (At the moment, local children go to clubs outside the community when they are too old for Little Athletics).

- with other councillors, visit youth centres in other municipalities with a view to improving facilities for youth in Altona.

- encourage greater liaison between council and youth groups.

Pool plan

Cr. Richards said the council had spent a fair amount of time and money on developing sports grounds in the city.

"Money has been set aside for a pavilion to be built on Crofts Reserve, Altona North, where grounds for soccer, football and cricket have all been laid out and fenced," he said.

"We also hope to make provision for tennis facilities in Altona North."

Cr. Richards said it was possible work would begin on a swimming pool in Altona this year.

190 DOCKERS ARE FACING LOSS OF JOBS

She was talking about the retrenchment of 190 men from the Williamstown Naval Dockyards.

"Everyone is frightened," Yvonne Irwin said yesterday.

"Where can I get a job if I get sacked?" asked Ken McLeod. A father of four children, two at school, Ken is a rigger at the dockyards.

"Lance Barnard told us lies," Karl Tullock, president of the Combined Union Shop Committee, said.

"There is a lot of featherbedding going on around here. And the industrial workers will not be the first to go."

The retrenchments are due to begin at the end of the month.

The threat of the retrenchments has shaken Williamstown.

At the same time throughout the western region union officials believe at least 1400 people will be laid off from defence establishments.

Most of the dockyard workers drink at Yvonne Irwin's hotel, the Britannia, in Morris Street, Williamstown.

She has run the hotel for 12 years.

"No one can afford to spend money," she said.

Ken McLeod, 53, said the retrenchments would be disastrous.

"I'm on repat," he said. "I'm 53 and where can I get a job if I get sacked?"

Mr. McLeod said he earned a net wage of $70 a week. Most of it is spent in Williamstown or other parts of the western suburbs.

"I'm paying off a house here and have two children going to school."

"A lot of the men there are in the same position — at least 75 per cent. of them live in the west."

"You can't just take them away from the dockyards and put them into another job.

"They are specialists."

Mr. McLeod said the greatest fear among the men was not knowing who would be sacked first.

"Like me a lot of the blokes are on repat. (repatriation treatment) and we get six weeks leave a year."

"I can't see commercial organisations tolerating our needs."

He said about one-third of the workers at the yards were on repatriation.

FAMILY

Both Mr. McLeod and Mr. Tullock said any retrenchment would disrupt family life in the area.

"Like many other families I have a boy working here," Mr. McLeod said.

"It is at least a two generation craft."

Mr. Tullock said Mr. Barnard, Minister for Defence, said on March 2 this year that there would be no retrenchments at the dockyards.

"Now he seems to have broken his promise," he said.

"He said it was a Cabinet decision."

"Even now we welcome the cut back in defence spending so that more money can go on schools and social welfare."

"However there is no reason why alternative work can't be found for the dockyards."

Mr. Tullock said the ACTU would meet Mr. Barnard on September 17 and there would be a mass meeting at Festival Hall on September 18.

"We have been told about the retrenchments," he said. "But there are 1370 workers on site and 600 staff."

"The workers will not be the first to go, while others are feathering their beds."

Mr. Tullock said threat of retrenchment was also affecting munitions, ordnance and aircraft workers.

At the moment the defence cuts could affect 1400 workers — mostly in the western region," he said.

Dr. Jim Cairns, Minister for Trade, said the Department of Supply was studying aspects of changing the work load for the yards.

He said he did not think that deferment of the retrenchments would create any strain on the Treasury.

However, he said any deferment would have to be considered on the validity of long term production.

NEW GROUP TO ASSIST MIGRANTS

A committee aimed at co-ordinating and expanding services to migrants has been formed in the western suburbs.

It is the Western Region Community Relations Committee.

The committee was formed at a public meeting at the Footscray Town Hall on August 2.

It meets on the first Thursday of each month at the Town Hall at 7 p.m. Any interested persons are welcome.

Almost half the committee members speak two or more languages.

These include Albanian, Arabic, French, German, Greek, Hebrew, Italian, Maltese, Polish, Serbo-Croatian and Slovenian.

The publicity officer, Mrs. G. Barnes, said: "The purpose of the committee is to assist migrants to be able to operate fully in the community."

It will do this by:

● Personal assistance:

● The compilation of a list of already-existing support organisations, which will be available to anyone who asks.

● Inquiries into possible areas of need and steps to meet those needs.

People with queries or requests should write to the secretary, Mrs. Grove-Rogers, 42 Albert Street, Footscray, 3011, or come to a meeting of the committee.

The next meeting is tomorrow night (Thursday).

Arthur Wells (above), who is turning 65 this week, has just written to the Altona Council asking it to let him keep his job at the Altona tip.

"You can keep working if the council thinks you're fit and I feel pretty fit," Arthur said on Friday.

Arthur, who is resourceful with impish sense of humor, says some people go to the tip with ulterior motives.

"They pay their 20 cents but instead of leaving rubbish, they want to take things away," he said.

They find things that have no value for you and no value for me, but have some value to them. Such things as "pieces of wood," he said.

Arthur has a lot of trouble with one person who kept coming back, regardless of his warnings.

"I found a child's toy camera and kept it in my "pocket," Arthur said. "Then when I saw him next, I pretended to snap his picture," he added.

"He hasn't been back since."

Arthur, who has lived in Altona for the past 30 years, comes from Tasmania. He worked for a Newport freezing firm for 28 years before joining the council outdoor employees eight years ago.

Arthur attributes his fitness to "the healthy tip air."

It's not advisable to try to take bits and pieces from "Arthur's" tip.

He'll make the culprit laugh so much, he's bound to drop his takings anyway.

Campaign to get footy "live" on TV

Mr. Barry Headland, liaison officer for Overseas Trade Minister, Dr. Jim Cairns, has launched a campaign to get football grand finals televised live.

In a circular to members of football clubs Mr. Headland says: "Let us find better ways of doing things, and stop this stupidity of no live telecasting."

"Football," he adds, "belongs to the people and it is about time that the people were able to watch the grand finals on television live, not just a delayed telecast."

In his circular, Mr. Headland suggests members give notice of motion for the next general meeting of their club to this effect:

"That the members of this club present at this general meeting hereby recommend to the committee of management that it uses its best endeavors with the VFL to have the grand finals in each season commencing 1974 directly telecast, providing that all tickets for each grand final are sold out in advance."

As many club members as possible should be encouraged to attend the general meetings, says Mr. Headland.

Mr. Headland has sent a series of letters to the administrative director of the VFL asking for live telecasts.

In his most recent reply, the director, Mr. E. O. McCutchan said, "... having regard to the decision made to not approve such telecasts, I am of the opinion that it is not necessary to furnish any additional comments on this question."

JOHN TO PLAY

John Atwell will be guest organist at the next meeting of the Western Suburbs Organ Club, in Pennell Hall, Burke Street, Braybrook on Wednesday, September 12 at 8 p.m.

John has given a number of widely acclaimed concerts around Melbourne.

He is at present undertaking research at the Walter and Eliza Hall Institute in preparation for his Doctor of Philosophy Degree.

New mayor will work for youth

● From Page 1

"We set aside $100,000 for this last year and a further $100,000 should be approved when we work out estimates this year," he said.

Altona Tennis Club would get its pavilion this year and a pavilion on Langshaws Reserve in Altona North was almost completed, he said.

"Cr. Richards sees his mayoral year not as a year of "socialising" but as a "working year."

"By inviting various youth groups and sporting bodies to council meetings, we will increase liaison and be able to acknowledge the work of many of these organisations are doing for the community," he said.

By choosing "youth and sport" as his mayoral theme, Cr. Richards is upholding a tradition in the Richards family.

His father, the late Mr. Allan Richards, used to run a youth club in Fitzroy, when Cr. Richards was a lad, and later founded the Mountain District Girls Basketball Association.

Cr. Richards' father later started a basketball competition in Nunawading with a team of seven youths. When Mr. Richards died, his son Don (Cr. Richards' brother) took over the competition which had grown to 23 teams with about 180 men and girls competing.

Cr. Richards' other brother, Allan, is past president of the Bulleen Youth Club and Bulleen Football Association.

Cr. Richards came to Altona 16 years ago from Belgrave.

He and his wife, Pat, have three daughters, — Donna, 13, and twins Fiona and Andrea 7. Donna plays basketball with Altona North and open age basketball at Albert Park.

Cr. and Mrs. Richards attended their first official function the day after the inauguration, when Cr. Richards opened the men's section of the Altona Bowling Club season.

"And on Saturday night, my wife and I attended the seasonal opening of Altona Workingmen's Bowling Club," he said.

SEAT BELT LED TO DRUNK DRIVING; .05 CHARGES

Driving with his safety belt unfastened led to an Altona man being charged at Footscray Court last Thursday on three counts, including drunk driving.

Mobile Traffic Squad police told the court their attention was drawn to the man's car because it was driven unusually slowly for light traffic conditions.

Henry Malcolm Payne, 34, of Waters Drive, Altona, pleaded not guilty to the drunk-driving charge, but guilty to charges of driving with a blood alcohol content over .05 and driving with his safety belt unfastened.

Police told Mr. G. Miller, S.M. a Breathalyzer test returned a .210 reading. They said they noticed Payne's car in Ballarat Road, Footscray, about 7.30 p.m. on Saturday, August 18 and Payne did not have his safety belt fastened.

They pulled him over and asked why he was not wearing his safety belt. He replied, "I don't know."

A police witness said he smelt alcohol on Payne's breath and asked had he been drinking.

Payne said he had drunk six cans of beer at North Melbourne Football Ground and four pots at a hotel after the match.

Asked would he agree to a Breathalyzer test, Payne said, "Of course, but I don't think I've had too much", police said.

'Learn to drink' advises SM

A Western Suburbs magistrate urged last week a better form of education for people who drink and drive.

Mr. Caven SM said in the court he stopped Kinigiskis in Miller's Road on May 23 this year.

He said that when Kinigiskis was given a breath test later he recorded a .09 reading.

Mr. Daryl Wraith, for Kinigiskis, said his client had not driven for two hours after having a few drinks.

"This action showed he believed he was doing the correct thing."

Mr. Caven said he would adjourn the case for 12 months and placed Kinigiskis on a $20 bond.

He imposed a fine of $30 on the careless driving charge.

'STUPID'

Payne failed sobriety tests at Footscray police station, police said. They produced written sobriety tests.

Payne told Mr. Miller he was driving carefully, but realised "It was a stupid thing to do".

Mr. Miller said the written tests showed Payne was affected by alcohol at the time and the Breathalyzer reading was a high one.

After Sergeant H. Voigt, prosecuting, said, Payne had no prior convictions, Mr. Miller said there was no evidence he had driven in any way dangerous to himself or other people.

ADJOURNED

He imposed the minimum penalty, a $100 fine and the minimum cancellation period, 12 months, and made no order of a prison term in default of payment.

The magistrate adjourned the .05 charge until October 25 this year and told Payne there was no need for him to appear on that day unless he was in trouble between or the police told him to attend.

The charge would be dismissed if he was in no further trouble, Mr. Miller said.

He fined him $10 for driving with his safety belt unfastened.

If you're proud to be old, join up

Members of the Williamstown Elderly Citizens' Club enjoy singing — and do it well, too.

Certain people rather object to being old, but once they get over that feeling, they're all right. Members pitting their skill at billiards against the Yarraville team.

That's how Mr. Frederick Bennett sums up the attitude of over-60s, who dislike the idea of joining the Williamstown Elderly Citizens' Club.

Mr. Bennett, who is president of the club, is an active, laughing, achieving example of what old age can be like.

Not that you could call him old. At 68, he has 27 grandchildren and the only apparent sign of his age is his wisdom. He has an unlined face, rosy cheeks and bright, alert eyes.

The club, which celebrates its 15th birthday this week, has a lot to offer. It has 307 members, who can visit the club between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on week days. In addition, the club opens at 7 p.m. for evening activities.

Bowling appears to be the favorite hobby of both men and women, Mr. Bennett says.

There is something for everyone. Monday is the time for bowling, Tuesday is community singing, Wednesday is for cards, Thursday and Friday offer bowling games, Saturday night is old time dancing and Scottish folk dancing.

The club also has its own concert party and arranges visits and outings to beaches and other clubs.

About 75 per cent. of the members are women. A 12-seater bus, which transports disabled members to the club, is one of the most valuable possessions the club has.

The only things still needed are a storeroom and a drive leading to the club door. A road to the door would be an advantage, it would save people walking from the mini-bus," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett believes clubs ought to be self-supporting within reason. "It's wrong to take away a person's independence. They like to think they can do something for themselves," he said.

"I banned discussions about politics and religion in the club, we don't want any fights here," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett's wife, who is confined to a wheelchair, is one of the most active people in the club. Other people who help to make the club a success are vice-president, Mr. George Doff, treasurer, Mrs. M. Ballantyne; secretary, Mrs. N. Bennett and assistant secretary, Mrs. J. Burnell.

Mr. Frederick Bennett

Mr. Bennett believes in staying active in old age.

"You've got to do something with your retirement, otherwise you just fade away," he said.

2 MORE YEARS TO FIX 'POLLY'

Work on the Polly Woodside, the ship the National Trust is restoring should be completed within two years.

The trust is looking for an ancient windlass which probably had its origins in a coastal schooner and a luffing block was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Ian Clerke.

The donation, the largest yet made for the Polly Woodside fund, was received at a special champagne party on board the iron barque on Saturday.

The Polly Woodside is the only barque of its type left in Victoria and before conversion can begin it has to be surveyed by Lloyds.

And she has to be cleaned up before that.

Cargo derricks have been carefully lowered on to the decks of the Polly Woodside by volunteers of the Seamen's Union of Australia, these will later be put on the wharf.

Exciting acquisitions which have been unearthed include a greenhouse found in the grounds of a Mt. Eliza home and donated for use as an after deck-house.

It originally belonged to a sailing ship at the turn of the century.

Col Paige Ford donated an ancient windlass which probably had its origins in a coastal schooner and a luffing block was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Ian Clerke.

Mr. Clerke is a descendant of the captain of the sailing ship, Socrates, which was wrecked at Port Fairy. The luffing block came from the Socrates.

STUDY TOUR

Mr. Russell Little, 25 of Altona has returned to Australia following a successful two year study term in the United States.

POLICE BEAT

A PENSIONER'S blankets and sheets were stolen from his bungalow behind a house in Inglis Street, Williamstown, between 10.30 a.m. last Friday and 2.30 p.m. the next day. The pensioner is Mr. Thomas Speechley. The sheets and blankets were worth $40. The thieves removed a wire screen and louver window blades.

LOST OR STOLEN? ... no-one is sure, but a hand trolley worth $150 has disappeared from a milk truck between Newport and Williamstown. The trolley belongs to, Dunstan's Dairy, Station Street, Williamstown, and is of grey-colored metal with yellow wheels. Driver Arthur Krygger used it at a milk bar in Hall Street, Newport, and found it missing when he arrived at the dairy. The loss as between 11 a.m. and noon last Thursday.

A SHOTGUN was among goods worth $500 stolen from a Williamstown house between 6 a.m. and 9 p.m. last Friday. The goods belong to Mr. Douglas McFarlane, driver, of Hamner Street. Also stolen were a portable television set and a portable stereogram. Police do not know how the premises were entered; there is no sign of a forced entry. The stolen gun is a double-barrel, Richards make.

POLICE IN Williamstown are seeking the owner of a cycle found outside a house in Alma Terrace, Newport. It is a standard men's 28 in machine. The owner may claim it by identifying it to Williamstown police.

SEVERAL youths were accidentally locked inside Williamstown Football Club's rooms about 1 p.m. last Sunday, police believe. But before breaking out, they stole two footballs, one white, the other brown, a football pump and a screwdriver, worth a total of about $20. The caretaker, Mr. Bob Salt, of Metford Street, Newport, discovered the theft about 7.30 a.m. on Monday morning.

MR. EDWARD Heatley of William Street, Williamstown, had his car stolen from outside his home between midnight last Tuesday and 7.30 a.m. Wednesday. It is a grey and green-colored, 1965 model Morris 850, registration number LMJ-285, valued at $900.

Mr. Heatley told Williamstown police the car was locked. To the time of publication it had not been recovered.

Seagulls defended

An Advertiser reader who calls himself a "true blue and gold supporter", hits back this week at a critic of Williamstown Football Club.

J. Jones, of Newport, writes: "Having read the letter published in your issue of August 2, from a Mr. J. Newton, 75, of Milliera Street, Newport, concerning the Williamstown Football Club and its record for the season, I think that you should also print the opinion of others.

"Corrections to erroneous statements by the previous writer should be presented.

"If it is correct that the executive of the club's committee must take the blame for losses when a team hits the bottom of the ladder, it must now be correct that the praise for a great finish to the season must also be shared by the executive of the club.

"The Seagulls finished the last seven matches with five wins and two losses, the two losses being four points to Port Melbourne at Port Melbourne and five points to Dandenong at Dandenong. Both games could easily have gone Williamstown's way, if umpires' decisions were justly given in final term incidents.

"There are always some who make the task of coach and committee more difficult with their rash selfish statements and the only ones who listen to them are people of similar

Six western netball sides get to finals

Six of the seven teams in the Western Suburbs Netball Club made the finals of the Victorian Netball Association's winter competition at Royal Park.

However, only one team — Western Suburbs 2, took out a premiership when it defeated Oak Hill 46 goals to 36.

Members of the team were Denise Burbs (captain), Jillian Bright, Glenda Ryan, Cheryl Heagney, Elizabeth Donald, Deborah Barrett and Jenny Hanson.

This team also scored more goals for the season than any other team competing at Royal Park.

Western Suburbs 1, who were undefeated before the finals, were beaten by the strong Trinity team 30 to 23 in the grand final.

Western Suburbs 4, after being 12 goals down just before half time in their grand final, fought back courageously and just failed to catch up with Eltham. Final scores were 33 to 31.

Western Suburbs 3 were defeated by Kilmaire in the preliminary final.

In the junior competition Western Suburbs 2 were narrowly defeated in the preliminary final after convincingly defeating East Keilor the previous week. Western Suburbs 1 were defeated by Sacred Heart, Oakleigh, in the semi-final.
